

New management at Baulé UK

Effective 1 October 2011, Steve Gormley has taken the position as General Manager of the UK subsidiary of the Baulé company. Prior, Gormley was Technical Director of the company and he has contributed in developing the product portfolio and business of Baulé UK.

Baulé, a joint venture between Bayer MaterialScience AG and Eximium gathering the cast elastomer operations of both companies, is established in the UK with a subsidiary in Cheshire created in July 1999. Today, Baulé UK markets and supports both machines and systems manufactured in France for the British market. The company is also manufacturing a specific line of cast polyurethane systems dedicated to the oil and gas offshore and the renewable energy sector for applications such as stiffeners, bend restrictors, field joints, etc.
